

WE HONOR HARLEQUINS

The Hi-Lines would like to honor the Harlequins for the terrific job they did on their play Oct. 25. The production, "And Never Been Kissed" was enjoyed by all. Congratulations on a job well done by cast and committees!

KOOLIE'S KOLUMN

Here's a letter I received from a Soph girl who apparently doesn't think much of her roommates:

Dear Koolie,

I have a complaint. My roommates are awful funny creatures. They always get mad at me when I throw my clothes on the floor or tip over an overloaded wastebasket when they have to clean the room. Even if I do use all of their cosmetics, they don't have to yell at me when they can't find them and then find them in my drawer. And they don't have to worry about their clothes either. I'll wash them and give them back to them someday. I also have one last complaint. I wish they would quit nagging me for the money I owe them! Now, don't you agree with me that they're kinda queer?

DL

Dear DL,

You really have a good complaint there, DL! I found out who your room-they are queer. A good solution to this problem is to either get new roommates, because after all, by now you must be sick and tired of your roommates' stuff, so a new change in cosmetics and clothes would do you wonders, or but your own clothes and become a queer like the rest of your roommates.

P.S. By the way, here are a few of the new couples on kampus:

P.D. - E.G.
H.L. - J.P.
W.S. - C.B.
G.B. - G.S.
K.M. - E.M.
D.F. - C.G.

Now try and figure these all out. You'll be surprised with the results. See ya' in my next kolumn.

CONCLUSION TO BILLY'S TRIP

After the big morning Tuesday, we spent the afternoon and evening sight-seeing. We saw everything from the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis to the night tour of the Lincoln and Jefferson Memorials. Also that evening we visited the National Archives Building where we saw the original copies of the Declaration of Independence and the United States Constitution.

Wednesday our tour started early with a stop at the Bureau of Printing and Engraving. Here we saw the printing of American money and a $100,000 dollar bill. The White House tour was our next step. Senator Curtis arranged for us to have a special guided tour of the White House. So we got a little better tour than the average citizen. Our nation's White House is too beautiful to describe. All I can say, is that I was awe-struck. A tour of the J.B.I. Department was the last spot visited Wednesday morning. This was very educational to say the least. Later we went
